Understanding and Addressing Racial Microaggressions

Given the increasing diversity of clients seeking mental health care, there is a growing need to enhance the cultural sensitivity of therapeutic interventions with ethnoracial minority populations. One critical form of contemporary racism is the experience of microaggressions: brief, everyday exchanges, in the form of seemingly innocent and innocuous comments or behaviors that send denigrating messages to people of color. Microaggressions in mental health settings are a cause of poor therapeutic alliance and drop-out, representing a barrier to treatment. Repeated exposure to microaggressions can cause psychological unwellness and even trauma symptoms in victims. However, many clinicians are not aware of microaggressions, may commit them unknowingly against clients, and are unsure how to address them in treatment. Thus, increasing awareness of microaggressions is a critical target of clinical training and therapeutic intervention. Dr. Williams will also discuss how to recognize microaggressions, how to assess the impact of microaggressions in clients, and discuss how to address microaggressions when they occur in therapy or real-life.

Learning Objectives

At the end of this seminar, participants will be able to:
1. Define microaggressions and explain how they are connected to racism
2. Identify the most common microaggressions experienced by people of color
3. List the most common microaggressions committed by medical professionals and therapists against people of color
4. Explain the mental health impact of microaggressions on people of color
5. Assess the impact of microaggressions in their clients' cultural health

Seminar Schedule

Typically begins at 1:00 PM and ends at 4:15 PM Eastern time. There is one 15 minute break. However, check the webinar schedule.

Outline

Understanding Racism

Types of Microaggressions

Microaggressions in Public Life and Therapy

The Mental Health Impact of Microaggressions

Measuring Microaggressions

Responding to Microaggressions

Allyship and Personal Growth

Our seminars are available in two formats:
1. The webinar schedule:
2. The mental health impact of microaggressions
3. The mental health impact of microaggressions in the workplace
4. The mental health impact of microaggressions in the clinic
5. The mental health impact of microaggressions in the community
6. The mental health impact of microaggressions in the classroom
7. The mental health impact of microaggressions in the workplace
8. The mental health impact of microaggressions in the community
9. The mental health impact of microaggressions in the classroom
10. The mental health impact of microaggressions in the workplace
11. The mental health impact of microaggressions in the community
12. The mental health impact of microaggressions in the classroom

General Information

The TZKseminars educational planning committee members and this seminar’s presenter have no relationship with this commercial interest pertinent to the content of this seminar.

Individuals with a disability or special need can go to tzkseminars.com and read our Grievance Policy. Then, you can file a grievance. If you would like to file a grievance, go to tzkseminars.com and read our Grievance Policy. Then, you can file a grievance on our Contact page to request accommodations.

This seminar has been reviewed and approved by Keith Hannan, Ph.D., Phil Rich, LCSW, and Loren Yearick, MSN, RN. This approval expires on March 1, 2022. To cancel a registration, go to the Contact page. You will be charged $30 for any cancelled registration.

If you would like to file a grievance, go to tzkseminars.com and read our Grievance Policy. Then, you can file a grievance on our Contact page. You can also send a written grievance to:

Tzkseminars
6030 Daybreak Circle, Suite A150/355
Clarksville, Md. 21029

Monnica Williams, Ph.D., is the Canada Research Chair for Mental Health Disparities at the University of Ottawa, where she conducts psychological research, mentors students, and teaches advanced courses in multicultural psychology and psychopathology. She completed her undergraduate work at MIT and UCLA, and received her doctoral degree from the University of Virginia. Dr. Williams was an Assistant Professor at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine in the Department of Psychiatry for over four years, where she worked with Dr. Edna Foa at the Center for the Treatment and Study of Anxiety before her move to the University of Louisville in 2017, where she serves as the Director for the Center for Mental Health Disparities. She also worked at the University of Connecticut for 4 years, where she had joint appointments in the Department of Psychological Science and Psychiatry.

Dr. Williams has presented at many scientific conferences and is a much sought-after speaker. She has published over 100 peer-reviewed articles and book chapters focused on anxiety disorders and cultural differences. She has been the principal investigator on several grant-funded research projects, and has served as a peer reviewer for over 20 different journals.

Dr. Williams is a licensed psychologist in the United States and Canada. She is the Clinical Director of the Behavioral Wellness Counseling Center, which has offices in Tolland, Connecticut. She treats adults with anxiety disorders and provides clinical instruction to trainees. In the community, she conducts trainings and lecture for medical residents, local organizations, and treatment providers. She was president-elect of the Delaware Valley Association of Black Psychologists, co-founded the International ODP Foundation’s Diversity Advisory Board, and serves on the board of directors for the Chacruna Institute.