Mental health professionals frequently make assertions about legal issues based on their psychological expertise and expect that the laws should merely follow the research and practice to which they testify. Frequently, mental health professionals will conflate such matters as psychosis, limited intellect or brain impairment with legal issues such as Competency to Stand Trial, Criminal Responsibility and Mitigation. There are, in fact, many reasons why a diagnosis cannot be generalized into a legal conclusion. Nowhere is this better illustrated than in the United States Supreme Court deliberations and findings where behavioral science evidence is judged along side the laws which place constraints on how these matters can be considered in court. This webinar will explore these differences, looking at a wide array of cases in which mental health has been a central issue.

1:00-1:45 PM ET
The Supreme Court and the Issue of Future Dangerousness
1:45-2:30 PM ET
The Supreme Court in Criminal Law: Competency and Criminal Responsibility
Break 2:30-2:45 PM ET
2:45-3:30 PM ET
The Supreme Court: Confessions and Miranda Rights
3:30-4:15 PM ET
United States Supreme Court and Involuntary Commitment Issues
End 4:15 PM ET

Outline

Our seminars are available in two formats: The first is a live, interactive webinar: You can ask questions of our presenters, either by typing them or speaking into a microphone: If the webinar time is not convenient for you, you can purchase the Home Study version: It is a recorded version of the webinar: You will have to pass a test to earn CE's for both the live webinar and the Home Study version.

Does the Supreme Court Care About Mental Health Issues?

The Presenter
Dr. David Shapiro has been called the Father of clinical forensic psychology. His first book on forensic assessment appeared in 1983 and was the only book at that time to approach forensic assessment from the point of view of actual issues encountered in practice rather than from a theoretical basis. Since that time, he has authored five more books and four dozen peer reviewed articles dealing with the interface of psychology and law. His comprehensive approach to forensic assessment has been widely distributed and used as models for various books and training programs.

The Presenter
Dr. Shapiro is a Diplomate in Forensic Psychology of the American Board of Professional Psychology and has been actively engaged in forensic practice for over forty years. He is currently a Professor of psychology at Nova Southeastern University and teaches courses in forensic assessment, criminal law, ethics and professional practice, supervision and consultation, projective personality assessment, and risk assessment for future violence. He regularly provides forensic and ethics training at a variety of national forums, including APA and ABPP.

General Information

The TZKseminars educational planning committee members and this seminar’s presenter have no relationship with a commercial interest pertinent to the content of this seminar.

Individuals with a disability or special need can go to tzkseminar.com to the Contact page to request accommodations.

The Presenter
Dr. Hannan, Ph.D., Phil Rich, LICSW, and Loreen Yearick, MSN, RN. This approval expires on March 1, 2022. To cancel a registration, go to the Contact page. You will be charged $30 for any cancelled registration. If you would like to file a grievance, go to tzkseminars.com and read our Grievance Policy. Then, you can file a grievance on our Contact page. You can also send a written grievance to:

TZKseminars
6030 Daybreak Circle, Suite AT50/355
Clarksville, Md. 21029

The TZKseminars educational planning committee members and this seminar’s presenter have no relationship with a commercial interest pertinent to the content of this seminar.

Individuals with a disability or special need can go to tzkseminar.com to the Contact page to request accommodations.

The Presenter
Dr. Hannan, Ph.D., Phil Rich, LICSW, and Loreen Yearick, MSN, RN. This approval expires on March 1, 2022. To cancel a registration, go to the Contact page. You will be charged $30 for any cancelled registration. If you would like to file a grievance, go to tzkseminars.com and read our Grievance Policy. Then, you can file a grievance on our Contact page. You can also send a written grievance to:

TZKseminars
6030 Daybreak Circle, Suite AT50/355
Clarksville, Md. 21029

The Presenter
Dr. David Shapiro has been called the Father of clinical forensic psychology. His first book on forensic assessment appeared in 1983 and was the only book at that time to approach forensic assessment from the point of view of actual issues encountered in practice rather than from a theoretical basis. Since that time, he has authored five more books and four dozen peer reviewed articles dealing with the interface of psychology and law. His comprehensive approach to forensic assessment has been widely distributed and used as models for various books and training programs.

The Presenter
Dr. Shapiro is a Diplomate in Forensic Psychology of the American Board of Professional Psychology and has been actively engaged in forensic practice for over forty years. He is currently a Professor of psychology at Nova Southeastern University and teaches courses in forensic assessment, criminal law, ethics and professional practice, supervision and consultation, projective personality assessment, and risk assessment for future violence. He regularly provides forensic and ethics training at a variety of national forums, including APA and ABPP.