

Applying Attachment Theory in Work with Sexually Abusive Youth

Attachment theory can inform work with sexually abusive youth. This webinar will describe and discuss the use of attachment theory as a model and methodology by which to better understand the development of juvenile sexually abusive behavior and to better understand individual clients from an attachment-informed perspective. The webinar is not intended as a primer or introduction to attachment theory, but does provide a descriptive overview of relevant theoretical models, and includes case studies that highlight the use of attachment theory as a framework by which to understand and explore work with sexually troubled young people and their families. The webinar is designed for those wishing to learn more about attachment theory and its application in treatment with sexually abusive youth.

Target Audience

This seminar is for intermediate to advanced level clinicians

Learning Objectives

At the end of this seminar, participants will be able to:

1. Identify the linkages between early attachment experiences and the development of critical social skills and social competence.
2. Identify the implications of attachment difficulties on the development of troubled sexual and non-sexual behavior.
3. Explain the research on attachment and juvenile sexual offending.
4. Describe how an attachment-informed model can aid in understanding individual cases and the development of treatment strategies and approaches.
5. Explain how to use case study as a means for developing an attachment-informed case formulation.

Our seminars are available in two formats. The first is a live, interactive webinar. You can ask questions of our presenters, either by typing them or speaking into a microphone. If the webinar time is not convenient for you, you can purchase the Home Study version. It is a recorded version of the webinar. You will have to pass a test to earn CE's for both the live webinar and the Home Study version.
